Taking Action for Health

Health is a community effort. Every organization has a role to play.
What can your business do to promote Health for All?

PROMOTE UNDERSTANDING OF PUBLIC HEALTH

Invite public health leaders to present to your employees. Distribute public health announcements to your employees and at your worksites.

Incorporate public health messages in your communications; follow your LHD on social media and repost messages.

PARTNER WITH YOUR LOCAL PUBLIC HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Participate in your LHD's community health assessment. Inform your LHD of your employees' health needs and concerns.

Advocate for policies that promote healthy environments, such as affordable housing and child care, access to clean water, and safe pedestrian infrastructure.

PROMOTE HEALTH FOR ALL

Offer space for health screenings and other public health efforts. Offer healthy options through your business.

Promote employee health and wellness through employment practices, healthy work culture adjustments, and healthy activities for employees. Connect to state and national healthy workplace resources.

Embed a community health worker (CHW) into HR work systems so employees receive needed services and supports.

Support in-house policies and insurance plans that make it easier for employees to access to health and behavioral health care.

Integrate health considerations into planning and decision-making.
